

Conference Schedule A

Overview

The organizers of a new Platzi conference are looking for a website that breaks down all of the information for their event. This is important, because it helps to get people interested in the event, but also figure out how to actually enjoy the event.

Goals

1. Think of an event name
2. Create a homepage
3. Create location info page
4. Create food info page
5. Create code of conduct

Specifications

Before anything else, people need to know about the event. Where is it? What day is it? Where can people sleep? Create a multi-page website that includes all of the basic information about the new conference. The basic information should include details like the name of the event, a description, the date, the location, food options, hotel options, and importantly a code of conduct.

All the basic information should be provided by an API created on Node.
